RABBI LEE

Dear Friends,

Unlike Rosh HaShana and Yom Kippur, we prepare for the advent of Pesah daily. Both in evening prayers and in morning prayers, we recall the origins of the Jewish People – the moment when we traversed the Sea of Reeds to safety. Indeed, our history begins with our People as refugees. Nor following liberation did we immediately settle in the land that was promised. To the contrary, we were forced to wander through the Sinai wilderness for forty years, during which time God sustained us.

This seminal experience of our People's birth informs our laws and guides our sense of justice. We are commanded to take care of the stranger, because we were strangers. We rehearse our sufferings as displaced people not because we are neurotic or as an excuse to act unsympathetically, but as an imperative to give sanctuary to refugees, to take care of them by feeding and clothing them, and by providing shelter for them.

The Pesah seder is supposed to be a re-enactment both of our liberation as well as of our enslavement. The Haggadah tells us that we do not fulfill the mitsva of Pesah unless we experience both. But even at this time of heightened alert for Jews and for all other minorities in our country and abroad, it is difficult for us to fully feel what our ancient ancestors felt. I suggest that you adopt a contemporary refugee narrative this Pesah eve. With sixty-five million (!) people on the move in the world today, there are many from which to choose. An excellent place to begin is with HIAS, the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society. HIAS has published a supplement to the Haggadah that compares the story of the Jewish flight from Egypt to the narratives of modern refugees fleeing from places including Syria, the Congo and El Salvador. You might also consider tithing your afikomen money and making a contribution to HIAS, which recently sponsored a rally at Battery Park in support of immigrant rights. (RSNS also sponsored the event as did the Reconstructionist Rabbinical Association.)

Political theorist, Michael Walzer, saw the Israelite exodus as the paradigm for all subsequent immigrations. He concludes his treatise, Exodus and Revolution, as follows: "Pharaonic oppression, deliverance, Sinai, and Canaan are still with us, powerful memories, shaping our perceptions of the political world. The "door of hope" is still open; things are not what they might be – even when what they might be isn't totally different from what they are We still believe, or many of us do, what the Exodus first taught, or what it has commonly been taken to teach, about the meaning and possibility of politics and about its proper form:

- first, that wherever you live, it is probably Egypt;
- second, that there is a better place, a world more attractive, a promised land;
- and third, that "the way to the land is through the wilderness." There is no way to get from here to there except by joining together and marching."

With freedom comes responsibility. This year, use your seder to aid those still in need of liberation.

Marching forward together,
Lee

P.S. Consider closing your seder using Walzer's words.

New RSNS Working Group on Anti-Semitism

An ad hoc committee was recently formed to explore possible ways for the RSNS community to respond to recent incidents of anti-Semitism. While the committee's work is just getting started, the committee plans to focus initially on primarily two areas: reaching out to the greater Port Washington-Manhasset community to organize a speaker and/or education program for RSNS's "University Day" on May 20, and reaching out to the Port Washington High School in connection with the school's response to the Swastika that was recently discovered there.

This ad hoc committee is under the auspices of the Educational Advisory Group. Check the RSNS calendar and/or the weekly announcements for the next meeting. All congregants are invited to attend. If you have any questions, please feel free to reach out to Lorri Staal (lorrystaal@verizon.net) Joe Maissel (joe.maissel@me.com) or Rabbi Jodie at rabjodie@optonline.net Spring is finally here and so is Pesah! The children have been cooking all kinds of foods that you can eat during Pesah - matzoh brie, matzoh ball soup, matzoh pizza and chocolate covered matzoh. They are making beautiful placemats, afikomen bags, matzah covers and haggadahs for Pesah. Frogs are always an important part of Pesah in the nursery school - we sing about them; we read about them; we paint and decorate them, and our four year olds observe the transformation of tadpoles to frogs in their classrooms. The three and four year old classes will be participating in a Model Seder on Thursday April 6th and the toddlers will be participating in a Pesah Sing a Long on Friday April 7th.

Join us for our next PJ Library event will take place on Wednesday April 5th at 5:30 p.m. We will be reading PJ Library selections for Pesah and having dinner - one last bit of hametz before Pesah begins.

When we return to school after Pesah we will get ready for Yom Ha'atzmaut by making Israeli flags, airplanes, and blue and white collages. We'll be eating Israeli foods and having birthday cake as part of our celebrations.

Do you have leftover supplies from a home art project? The nursery school is always looking for yarn, wool, and buttons for our creative artwork.

Registration continues for our summer program and our fall classes. Don't delay - call the nursery school at 627-0257 to register your child (the forms are in this issue of the Shaliyah).

HAPPY PESAH TO ALL!

ADULT STUDIES AND SEMINARS

ALL ABOUT RECONSTRUCTIONISM!

WITH RABBI LEE (NEW for 2016-2017)

THIS MONTH'S SESSION IS TUESDAY,

APRIL 18th FROM 6:30 – 8:00 p.m.

How often have you been asked to define Reconstructionism? This course will address all questioners, and will satisfy your own curiosity as well. After an introductory session on its place within the context of American Jewish history, Rabbi Lee will offer a topical approach to the study. Topics to be considered will include: the meaning of God, ritual practice, the nature of prayer, the place of Israel, Judaism as a civilization, living in two civilizations – the Jewish and the American, life cycle practices, political action, and Jewish Peoplehood. Topics will be announced in advance for your consideration. One need not attend every session to benefit from the course. The entire RSNS community is invited to attend this monthly course. Mark your calendar for future meeting on 5/9

EAT, READ, TALK

Rabbi Lee will continue his Thursday program in this series beginning Thursday, April 20th from 11:30-1:00 p.m. He will again, present an article “ripped from the headlines” of Jewish relevance. Feel free to bring a dairy lunch and we’ll supply the hot drinks and the article to be discussed.

BIBLE STUDY

This group has been and continues to be committed to reading every word of the Hebrew Bible (in English translation). After more than a decade and a half, the group has reached the so-called Minor Prophets, minor not in importance, but in the amount of material that has survived of theirs. We begin this year’s study with the end of the Book of Psalms quickly turning to the Book of Proverbs. This seminar meets biweekly on Thursday nights from 8-9:30 p.m. This month’s meetings will be April 13th and 27th

SHABBAT SEMINAR

The History of Israel: A Documentary Approach: We began our examination of Zionism seven years ago through the lens of the writings of Zionist and anti-Zionist ideologues. We will begin this year with Israel’s post Yom Kippur War history. We will continue to critically review the development of the State through original source political and sociological documents. This seminar meets biweekly on Shabbat afternoons 12-1:30 p.m. This month’s meetings will be Saturday, April 8th and 22nd.

CANTOR’S DINNER

Friday, April 28th 6:00 – 7:30 p.m.

Following dinner, participants engage in lively conversation and study of diverse topics on a different theme each year. Previous themes have included Jews and Food, Jewish Mysticism, Jews from Exotic Lands, Jewish Music through The Ages, and Jewish Legends. This year’s theme is “Prayer Technology: Movement, Sound, Lighting, Text” - From ancient times to the 21st century, come explore the how’s and why’s of the Jewish worship experience!

Dinner is at 6:00 p.m., price per person varies depending on the menu. Anyone can skip dinner and come for FREE for the 6:30-7:30 p.m. study session. Please also mark your calendar for future dinner on 6/16

Please RSVP to Cantor Eric (rsnscantor@gmail.com) (whether you’re coming to the dinner OR just the discussion!) by Monday, April 24th AND WHY NOT BRING A FRIEND.

2ND GENERATION SURROGATE SURVIVORS

NEW FOR 2016/2017

This month’s meeting is at 8:00 p.m. on April 25th

Adult children and grandchildren of survivors are invited to participate in continuing to tell the stories and the history of their family member. These connections provide a vital link to the events of the Holocaust in a time when there are fewer survivors living to tell their own stories. The process begins with an education of how to effectively tell the story of your family member to different groupings of people. Irving Roth for the Holocaust Center at Temple Judea trains family members of survivors to tell their relative’s stories.

WOMEN'S ROSH HODESH GROUP

Traditional religious ritual was designed, and continues, to meet a variety of needs that relate to life passages: The need for the individual to be acknowledged by community, the need for the community/tribe to read itself into the passages of each member, the need for bonding, which serves both individual and community, the need to (re-)enact dramatically the great stories and messages of the tradition, for the sake of individuals and of the tradition. Through rituals, we create structures that provide an element of predictability and, therefore, safety, around times of insecurity, transition, and/or loss. All women of our congregation are welcome to join us as we continue to study, and learn from each other.

Stay tuned for our next meeting!

SHABBAT YOGA

Community Corner

A Place to share stories from every corner of the RSNS community.

(This partial history of RSNS is excerpted from the transcripts of Roma Connable's truly fascinating oral history interviews with Harriet Feiner, one of the founders of the synagogue, taken in 2005 and 2007. Terry and Bob Wolff contributed details and stories to help fill out the picture.)

By 1970, the RSNS congregation was growing, and the next generation of members, including Terry and Bob Wolff (called, in hindsight, "The Builders"), started to come in. Many of the founders saw that they needed to reach out to the new members and invited them over for Friday night dinners and family events, to help bring them into the fold.

Ira Eisenstein was still coming in every other weekend to lead services and teach the Saturday Seminar. His Friday night services included a lot of singing with musical support from his wife, Judith Kaplan Eisenstein, a Jewish musicologist, Sam Blumenthal on Piano, and Adele Blumenthal singing, and whistling too! There was a great deal of discussion, and many of the prayers were investigated in depth.

Rabbi Eisenstein started out going to dinners at founding congregants' houses before Friday night services, and then the practice grew as the congregation grew. Everyone was eager to have Judith and Ira Eisenstein over for dinner, especially the families of upcoming Bar and Bat mitzvahs, to ease anxieties before the big day. He was invested in the future of the synagogue, going to parlor meetings and synagogue retreats, to do what he could to help grow the membership, and help people feel more invested in the community, and in the Reconstructionist Movement overall.

In 1974, Dennis Sasso, a graduate of the new Reconstructionist Rabbinical College, came to RSNS to act as both the Hebrew school principal and assistant rabbi to Ira Eisenstein. Dennis created loose-leaves for Friday night services and high holidays, adding to and changing the services all the time, going back and forth from the siddur to the loose leaf. And he relied heavily on puns, which (some) people thought were funny.

During these years, a building was purchased in Roslyn Harbor, in the hopes of finally having a permanent home for RSNS. Unfortunately, the neighbors weren't thrilled with the potential traffic that came with a synagogue, and litigation ensued. By the time the court cases were successfully resolved, the building was too small for the growing congregation, and the opportunity came up to bid on a building in Roslyn Heights that was being exceded by the school district. The bid was successful, and the Willow Street School became RSNS's new home. (There are some stories about this transition that are doozies, with variations depending on the story teller. If you are interested in money and intrigue, check with Harriet Feiner, Terry and Bob Wolff, or Rabbi Lee for their differing versions of the saga. They're all a hoot!).

Harriet Feiner - "We moved in [to the Willow Street building] over the summer [of 1976]. The room that we used as the sanctuary had been a gym, so it sort of had tile walls, part way up, and it was really a wonderful community time because the whole congregation, which was pretty small in those days, we all came in and pitched in and scrubbed... I mean, I cleaned in that kitchen like I never cleaned my house."

Terry Wolff - "We were still a do-it-yourself congregation, cleaning the kitchen and hanging wall paper before a bar or bat mitzvah. We became gardeners, landlords, flower sellers, cooks, and bakers. We set up sound systems, made sure the building was heated and [we, the builders] began to take leadership positions in the synagogue."

Stay tuned for the next installment . . .

If you have a story you would like to share with the RSNS community, contact Rachel Mankowitz at rachelmank@earthlink.net.
